- Daisy: Hi, I'm home!
- Oliver: Hi there, I didn't know you were out. I thought you were still in bed. What have you got that bag for? Where have you been?
- Daisy: I've been swimming! This is the new me. No more lying in bed on Sunday mornings. I want to get fit again. It's been a long, lazy summer!
- Oliver: Oh yeah? What's all that about? Or rather ... who have you met?
- Daisy: No one! I went with a new girl in my class – Amy. She's cool. Anyway, what about you? Why are you having breakfast so late? Who were you out with last night?
- Oliver: Would you like some tea? I went to the cinema with Alfie and a couple of others, then we went for a curry in town. It was cool.
- Daisy: That sounds like a good night. What did you see?
- Oliver: Dale wanted to see that new sci-fi thriller, the one with ... oh, what's his name?
- Daisy: I know the film. What was it like?
- Oliver: Not bad. The curry afterwards was better though. We had a laugh.
- Daisy: Speaking of laughs, do you want to see something funny?
- Oliver: Go on then.
- Daisy: Tara! What do you think? Does it suit me?
- Oliver: What do you look like!!?? Can you get it? It's behind you.
- Daisy: Ummm, ah, it's Mum. Hi, Mum! How's Africa?
- Sophie: Hi, honey! Africa's very well, thank you! How are you?
- Daisy: Haha. You're in Tanzania, aren't you? What's it like?
- Sophie: Oh, it's amazing! Absolutely gorgeous. I'm at the coast now, near Dar-es-Salaam – it's wonderful. And the last few days have been perfect. I've taken so many photos!
- Daisy: Yeah? What have you been taking pictures of?
- Sophie: Well, I've been to Lake Victoria – incredible, it's as big as a sea and the sunrises, oh, with the fishing boats ... and I've been to Arusha, near Kilimanjaro and Mount Meru. They're both snow-capped volcanoes in the north – very impressive – and I've spent two days in the Serengeti National Park.
- Daisy: Did you see any lions? Or giraffes?
- Sophie: Oh yes!! And, and ... well, a lot of animals. What an experience! I am so lucky!
- Daisy: Did you get many good photos? Stupid question, right?
- Sophie: Haha. Yes, hundreds! I'll be home on Monday – shall we get some pizzas and look at my photos? Just the three of us?
- Daisy: Yeah, cool! Hey, shall I pass you to Oliver? He's here with me ...
- Sophie: OK, thanks love.
- Oliver: Hi, Mum ... no, I'm fine! It's just ... no, nothing ... how are you?
