

Transcript for Lottery Comedy

- Old lady: Excuse me, I was just wondering. What time does the park close?
- Young woman: Excuse me, mate, what time do you close?
- American tourist: Either four or five the park closes.
- Old lady: I used to play here when I was a child. Of course they kept it much nicer back then. Now it's just a bunch of waste.
- Young woman 2: I don't suppose you could tell me when the park closes, could you?
- Young man: Oi, oi mate. Where's the toilets? Where? Look, have you got a map somewhere, a map of the park? Oh, thanks very much. You've been very helpful. Thank you.
- Old lady: Excuse me. Excuse me. I think someone's dropped this.
- Old lady: Are you looking for someone?
- The target: Mate, what time does the park shut?
- Boy's father: What's going on? It's only five o'clock.
- Old lady: Excuse me. Excuse me. Excuse me.
- Old lady: This is you.
- Target: It's me.
- Park keeper: Hoi. The park's closed.
- Old lady: Not until six it isn't! And just as well. Just look who I've found!
- Park keeper: Where'd you get that?
- Old lady: In the supermarket. Didn't you read about it? They've been hiding these all over town. Now, where's my twenty grand?
- Target: Congratulations! You're the winner of the Target Mobile Find the Fugitive promotion 2005. I just need to take some information and the money's yours.
- Old lady: Oh lovely, thank you.
- Target: You're welcome.
- Old lady: You won't be seeing me here again.